PERSONAL STATEMENT

The focus of my clinical activities and of my patient-oriented research has always been on understanding the interplay between psychiatric illnesses and medical conditions and on developing innovative ways of addressing the whole spectrum of psychosomatic needs in patients with complex presentations. As a psychiatrist, I have a broad background in diagnosing and treating mental illness. Before my residency, I designed and conducted neuro-imaging research focused on correlations between structural brain changes and depression. Since the beginning of my residency in psychiatry, I have become interested in the interplay between medicine and psychiatry, especially the diagnostic and treatment of psychiatric conditions in medically ill patients – which present unique challenges due to their multiple comorbidities and the high risk of drug interactions.

From 2005 to 2014 I developed a very successful practice working for the State and then for Kaiser Permanente where I also served as the Chair of Research for Riverside area.

From 2014-2019, I served as the director of medical psychiatry unit and the director of TMS clinic at University of California, Irvine. I am still very involved in teaching residents, fellow as well as medical students and in patient-based research and treatment approaches for the most complicated patients.

In my role as a faculty at UC Riverside I am involved in several clinical, teaching and research activities:

Teaching: I teach the interventional Psychiatry course and occasionally give GR presentations

Research: Since 2020 I am the principal investigator at CI Trials (former affiliated with UC Riverside) where I conduct over 20 clinical trials (stage 2 and 3) addressing many psychiatric conditions, such as AD, schizophrenia, MDD, PTSD and others.

Currently, my clinical activities are focused on treating patients with complex medical, substance use and mental illness comorbidities. I offer second opinion clinics, transcranial magnetic stimulation treatment and dementia diagnosis using quantitative EEG event-related potentials.
